1. The Library has the character of private library, specialized in the theological, philosophical, juridical, historical and scientific disciplines. It is reserved to the Owner, for his institutional service, but it is also accessible, free of charge, to other researchers who need copies of manuscripts, books and other graphic and cartographic material in the library, both in paper and digital format.
2. The purpose of the library is above all guarding and preserving its own cultural assets with every care; moreover, it has the task of: 1) increasing the funds provided through purchases, exchanges or donations; 2) carry out the study and promote knowledge of the above mentioned assets; 3) make the cultural and scientific heritage available to interested parties, with the necessary precautions, both with the originals and digital reproductions, providing every possible support and updating the useful tools for this purpose.
3. Requests from university researchers and students or other people, qualified for cultural titles and/or publications of an adequate cultural level, are admitted. It is usually required to specify the purpose of the research.
4. Direct consultation is never allowed. The texts are not granted on loan for any reason, however interested parties can request through this form, preferably sent via e-mail (service@internetsv.info), full or partial copies of the works, within the terms of law. As a rule, the material requested is always sent by e-mail in the format most suitable for the single case.
5. The works on paper are partially available only in case of strict and justified necessity, considering the costs and time necessary for the digitization or photostatic reproduction.
6. As a contribution, a copy of the publications concerning the material consulted or received may be requested.
7. A maximum of three (3) searches can be made at a time regardless of the format of the works.
8. The researchers are in any case responsible for the use of the received reproductions, undertakes to comply with current international legislation regarding the copyright and the right of ownership. The reproductions, on any support that for any reason they have been obtained, cannot normally be duplicated or transferred to third parties, especially if protected by the above mentioned rights.
9. The video library and the discotheque section cannot be consulted, nor copies of any work can be requested, not even partial.
10. The owner reserves the right to deny access to research even without reasons for refusing.
11. No exceptions of any kind are granted to the above mentioned rules.
